The History

L'histoire

La historia

The first president, George Washington, selected the site in 1791 and a competition design submitted by Irish-born architect James Hoban was chosen a year later. During the War of 1812, the British set fire to The White House and James Hoban was appointed to rebuild it. Completed once again in 1817, there have been countless renovations and additions since.

Le premier président, George Washington, a choisi le site en 1791. Un plan présenté par l'architecte d'origine irlandaise James Hoban dans le cadre d'un concours a été sélectionné un an plus tard. Pendant la guerre de 1812, les Britanniques ont mis le feu à la Maison-Blanche, et James Hoban a été chargé de la reconstruire. Achevée une fois de plus en 1817, la Maison-Blanche a depuis subi d'innombrables rénovations et ajouts.

George Washington, el primer presidente, escogió el lugar en 1791. Un año después, se eligió por concurso el diseño del arquitecto irlandés James Hoban. Durante la guerra de 1812, los británicos incendiaron la Casa Blanca y James Hoban fue el encargado de reconstruirla. Terminada de nuevo en 1817, ha atravesado incontables reformas y ampliaciones desde entonces.

A Grand Mansion

Un grand manoir

Una gran mansión

The White House is a grand mansion in the neoclassical Federal style with details that echo classical Greek architecture. The style shares its name with the Federal Period in American history, a time when the founding generation of the young Republic consciously chose to associate the nation with the ancient democracies of Greece and the republican values of Rome.

La Maison-Blanche est un grand manoir de style fédéral néo-classique agrémenté de détails qui rappellent l'architecture grecque classique. Le style tient son nom de la période fédérale de l'histoire américaine, une époque où la génération fondatrice de la jeune République a délibérément choisi d'associer la nation aux anciennes démocraties de la Grèce et aux valeurs républicaines de Rome.

La Casa Blanca es una gran mansión de estilo neoclásico federal con detalles que recuerdan a la arquitectura clásica griega. El nombre del estilo se asocia al Período Federal de la historia americana, una época en la que la generación fundadora de la joven república eligió conscientemente vincular la nación a las antiguas democracias griegas y los valores republicanos de Roma.

The East Wing

L'aile est

The original East Wing was completed in 1902 and served mainly as an entrance for formal visitors during large social gatherings. The building we see today was added in 1942, primarily to cover the construction of an underground shelter and emergency operations center for Franklin D Roosevelt. Traditionally the East Wing now serves as office space for the first lady and her staff.

The West Wing

L'aile ouest

El ala oeste

It was Thomas Jefferson who first proposed adding one-story extensions east and west of the presidential mansion. A century later William Howard Taft officially moved the president's working room to the West Wing, creating the Oval Office we know today. It's from here the president addresses the American public on TV and where he confers with staff and visiting heads of state.

C'est Thomas Jefferson qui a été le premier à proposer d'ajouter des annexes d'un étage à l'est et à l'ouest du manoir présidentiel. Un siècle plus tard, William Howard Taft a officiellement déplacé la salle de travail du président à l'aile ouest, créant le Bureau ovale que nous connaissons aujourd'hui. C'est de là que le président s'adresse au public américain à la télévision et où il s'entretient avec le personnel et les chefs d'État en visite.

Fue Thomas Jefferson quien propuso por primera vez incorporar extensiones de un piso al este y al oeste de la mansión presidencial. Un siglo después, William Howard Taft trasladó oficialmente la sala de trabajo del presidente al ala oeste, creando el despacho oval tal como lo conocemos hoy. Es desde aquí desde donde el presidente se dirige al pueblo estadounidense por televisión; también es donde se reúne con el personal y las visitas de estado.
